

Figure 1: Aerial view of a densely packed urban area.

This figure shows an aerial view of a densely packed urban area. The buildings are small and rectangular, with flat roofs. The area is characterized by a high density of structures, with very little open space visible between them. The overall appearance is that of a large, established city or town.

